SUMMARY:

Marking the Tenth anniversary of the enactment of the Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive (Directive 2014/59/EU of 15 May 2014), which established a pan-European framework for the resolution of banks which are failing or likely to fail, the conference aims to review the global and European experience with the resolution frameworks and practices adopted in the wake of the Global Financial Crisis (GFC) of 2007-2009. Divided into two main parts, the conference will first examine the post GFC bank resolution regimes from a global perspective, comparing the European approach with that of the US, the UK, and Switzerland. It will then focus on the key aspects of the European regime, seeking to assess its implementation and practical operation to date.
