

VOGIATZIS Charalampos

He was born in Alexandria in 1953.

He studied Economics in the University of Athens and he has a Master Degree in Regional Development.

He joined the Bank of Greece in 1980 and the last 25 years is involved with banking supervision.

Currently is Deputy Director of the Department for the Supervision of Credit and Financial Institutions.

He served for many years as head of the External Relations Section and he has contributed to the development of most of the bilateral and multilateral MoUs the Bank of Greece has concluded with other foreign and domestic supervisory authorities.

He has participated in many working groups and committees of various international fora including ECB, CEBS, OECD and other.

He represents the Bank of Greece in CEBS and in the Steering Committees of the Eurosystem's technical assistance programmes with the Bank of Russia (TACIS 2) and the Central Bank of Egypt (MEDA 2)